LO: To write a narrative from a different character's perspective.

I ^{remember} the days before war came. ^{Me} and ^{my} beloved husband took our children to the beach. But one day ~~it~~ ^{that} all changed and one day war tore ^{my} ~~our~~ family apart and changed our lives, and not for the better.

A few days later, I talked to one of my friends^{many} told me about a Sage place where magnificent animals live and where war is non-existent. My friend gave me a map and we set off on our journey. The more we travelled the more we left behind. The more we travelled ~~we~~^{the more} ~~left behind~~^{we forgot the} more memories we left behind.

We eventually reached a border but... [↑] ~~was~~ ^{it was} heavily protected by tall, scary guards with weapons.
We tried to sneak past but we were caught in the act. A ~~loud~~ ^{loud}, thunderous ~~voice~~ ^{voice} shouted
"What do you think you're doing?" ~~shouted~~
a guard. "Trying to get to a safe place."
I ~~jumped~~ ^{urghed}. "Not though here you're not!" He exclaimed.
I went on a plane in a forest and before long my children fell asleep. ~~But~~ ^{IR} I ~~saw~~ ^{saw} a man. He ~~offered~~ offered me to let us pass for some money.
So I ~~payed~~ ^{paid} him and wake up the kids and ~~spoke~~ ^{spoke} for the wall. I ~~finally~~ ^{all} got past the border and I a boat with hundreds of refugees trying to steer ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~uncontagious~~ ^{uncontagious} war.
